Joe Hogue New Coshocton Rotary Club President

Joe Hogue took the oath of office as Coshocton Rotary Club President at the club's weekly luncheon meeting at the Coshocton Town and Country Club Tuesday afternoon.

President Hogue outlined club projects for the upcoming year including drilling water wells to provide safe and healthy drinking water for children.

Hogue takes the reins from Amy Hasseman who just completed her one year term in leading the club.

Hasseman was honored for her service and leadership. The outgoing president recapped the success, goals achieved, and service provided to the Coshocton community by the club. Hasseman was also surprised with video slide-show which included a variety of photos from both the past and present.

Thank you Amy for your hard work and dedication over the past year.

Hasseman also recognized board members in attendance for the upcoming year including Christy Nelson, Kathy Thompson, Heather Guess, and Jason Given.

Joe Hogue is sworn in by Amy Hasseman as President of the Coshocton Rotary Club.

Lead the Way

by Joseph Hogue

Rotary International President William Boyd has chosen the theme Lead the Way for 2006-2007. It reflects on his belief in the power of Rotarians to change the world.

He has chosen water management, literacy, health and hunger, and the family of Rotary as the emphases for this year. As I listened to his address at the PETS conference, there was a profound silence as he explained that over 6000 children under the age of 5 die every DAY, from waterborne illnesses. That's a sobering number.

After reading and hearing his words, my goal was to utilize matching grants from the Rotary Foundation to complete water well. I know as Rotarians, helping provide fresh drinkable water, we will change the lives of a small village and may give life to a child whom may have perished from poor water quality.

I want to thank the Rotary Club for allowing me to serve as President this year. I feel honored and will give you 110%. I will look to all the members for help, ideas and guidance.
